warp

The work after payroll.

Julius founder Rahul Sonwalkar describes how worrying about tax notices took time away from building the product. His team moved from Rippling to Warp.

Rahul Sonwalkar · Still from Warp’s customer film

Independent editorial study by Kov Rastogi

Still of Julius founder Rahul Sonwalkar from Warp’s customer film. He describes moving payroll from Rippling to Warp.

Watch the Julius customer interview

Waiting on whom?

One state can still be processing when the employer has nothing left to submit. The status needs an owner.

Product example from Warp. The figures describe the demo account.

The figures and Georgia status are from Warp’s public compliance demonstration. They refer to the demo account.

Explore Warp’s compliance example Read the separate Julius story

Give the notice an owner.

Send a founder one short receipt whenever a filing changes hands.

Suggested filing receipt written for this study. Its agency handoff draws on the Georgia entry in Warp's public demonstration.

See Warp's compliance demonstration Watch the Julius interview